Dennis Louderback home in Xenia was removed to the slab.

"I was going past Spring Valley on 42 when it looked back to see the traffic and I saw two swirling columns of smoke churning at the top and bottoms and walking like two giant fingers across the country. They were moving faster than my car. I wanted to get beyond some trees to get a picture. They were ahead of me and seemed to disappear. When they became an ash grey cloud moving rapidly toward Xenia I would see what looked like little flecks in the cloud. Drawing by Lisa McClure

The tornados that occurred in the Lebanon and Mason areas last Wednesday evening put in excess of 2000 telephones in the area out of service, according to Brad Knapp, Lebanon District Manager for United Telephone. This figure is based on early reports and might change as additional reports are received.

Restoration work is underway to get all telephones back into service as quickly as possible. Additional repair crews have been directed into the area to assist in the restoration of telephone service. Personnel began arriving late Wednesday evening from the other districts within United's Sidney Division including Mr. Gerald Crosby, United's Sidney Division General Manager. One of the repair crews first priorities will be the replacement of nearly 200 telephone poles and the associated telephone cable which was destroyed by the storm.

Knapp said that United's Mason Exchange was on emergency power from approximately 7:15 Wednesday evening until 10:30 Thursday morning. This emergency power provided limited service within the Mason Exchange to subscribers whose outside telephone facilities were not damaged.

On Thursday, April 4, United's Lebanon Toll Center processed over 17,000 operator handled calls. Knapp pointed out that this figure is nearly two and one-half times the normal load, and only emergency calls were processed. "I can not praise too highly the work that our operators and plant personnel who worked long hours immediately after the storm," Knapp said. "There were men in our Mason Exchange who worked over 36 hours without rest."

Although repair personnel worked throughout the weekend, United estimates that it will take at least one week to fully restore all known service outage. Knapp pointed out that there will be delays in completing requests for new service installations and service additions since all efforts are being directed toward repairing and restoring service in the areas affected by the storm.
